We believe that licensing of high quality creative assets doesn't have to be complicated. That's why we've created this simple, transparent and straightforward license for all users.

Before we start, when we refer to “Assets”, we mean Artlist's stock catalog, which includes music, sound effects, footage, and video templates available for download through Artlist.

How many seats do you want?

behalf of Artlist and made available the Site for editing, modification, or download, subject to the subscription plan you select. This also includes edits, adaptations, or changes made to these materials using any technology, including AI tools.

When we refer to AI “Output”, we mean content you create using Artlist’s AI Services, such as voiceovers, footage, audio-visual content, and still images. The license terms that apply to AI Services and AI Output are described in detail in the Terms of Use or the Business Terms of Use as applicable to your subscription. For clarity, if you create or modify any Assets, they are still considered Assets under this License and do not become AI Output.

Okay, let’s jump in.

1. We cover everything

But what does “everything” mean? Here’s what’s covered:

- YouTube
- Facebook
- Instagram
- TikTok
- Twitter
- Vimeo
- Twitch
- Commercial
- Broadcasting
- Websites
- Wedding Videos

- Audiobooks, DVDs, Blu-ray
- Out-of-home and billboard advertisements

(i) Broadcasting of your Projects is allowed in accordance with section here. If you operate as a broadcaster you are required to hold a Max Business plan or an Enterprise Agreement, as further detailed in Section 11.

In what formats/mediums?

- Video clips
- Podcasts
- Advertisements
- Animations
- Films
- Presentations
- Series
- Slides

If you want to use the Assets in any other formats or use-cases, you'll probably need an Enterprise license. See more under #11.

When you purchase a subscription Artlist, you receive the right to download any Asset (depending on your subscription plan) and integrate it into your projects or productions that combine sound and visual media; (we call them "Projects").

You may use Assets as inputs in AI services, provided they are not used to train or fine-tune AI models. Assets may not be used with AI services that claim ownership or rights in the generated output, or with shared or community-based AI services where outputs are visible to or reusable by others. Any output that is based on, incorporates, or is derived from Assets

Additionally, Artlist may make available as detailed here certain video editing plugins and tools, including the Artlist Hub Manager (collectively, the “Tools”). The Tools are designed solely to operate as add-ons or integrations within supported third-party editing software (for example, Adobe Premiere Pro) and do not function as standalone products. The Artlist Hub Manager is provided exclusively as a utility to facilitate the download, installation, updating, and integration of the Tools into such third-party platforms.

If included under your subscription plan, you are granted a limited, non-exclusive, non-transferable license to download, install, and use the Tools on up to two (2) devices. This license includes access to and use of all updates, upgrades, new versions, and patches to the Tools, as made available by Artlist during your active subscription term. Please note that updates may introduce, modify, or remove features and may be required for continued use of the Tools. The license terms apply equally to all updates and upgrades.

To check whether your subscription includes access to the Tools, please refer to Artlist’s pricing and plans page here.

If you’re hired to create the Project, your client is covered by your license and can use the Project. You and your clients can present and/or play the Project publicly, and distribute it in any existing means of media, websites, platforms, social networks, video sharing sites, television, or other data Artlist is made for people creating Projects. Artlist Assets may only be used as integrated elements within broader Projects and may not be used copied, distributed, performed, presented, sold, licensed, shared, or otherwise exploited as standalone content (such as music, footage, or images on their own), nor may they be used to create derivative works like remixes or covers, or included in datasets for machine learning, AI training, or the development or improvement of AI technologies.

Trial Account User

If you are a non-paying user with a trial account or if you get access to a trial account, you can only download watermarked Assets under your trial subscription, you can only download the watermarked versions of the Assets for personal preview. You are forbidden from removing such watermarks and from using the watermarked version in any Projects or in any other way. Get your full subscription here!

2. Your Projects are yours to use Forever

For now and for all future time. Eternally.

Once you create Projects using downloaded Assets and publish them in any media during your subscription term, you can keep using your Projects in the same media and monetize them

You're covered to create and publish your Projects while your account is active. When your subscription expires, those Projects can remain published with any media, but any new projects will not be covered.

You can download Assets as long as you have a paid subscription with Artlist and use them in new Projects and publish them only during your paid subscription term. If you want to know more about the subscription terms, renewal, upgrades, changes and termination, take a look at our Terms of Use Or Business Terms of Use as applicable to your subscription.

3. Your clients are covered

You can create Projects for your clients, but only you can download the Assets and use them to create a Project.

If you create a Project incorporating an Asset, you can transfer this Project to your clients and to anyone else, so they can use the Project (but the License is only yours).

Keep in mind that if you collaborate with any third party in a Project or if you create a Project for your clients, you must make sure your collaborator and/or client complies with this License. Your collaborator and/or client must use the Projects in compliance with this License.

download as many Assets as you want

As long as you keep it reasonable, you can download as many Assets as you want during your subscription and use them in as many Projects as you wish.

“Reasonable” means that you can download up to 40 songs, 100 SFX, templates, and/or 100 clips/footage/animations/3D per day. We consider downloading Assets by any automatic means, such as software, bots, etc., as not reasonable and therefore it is prohibited.

The Assets you choose will be available for download in your library as long as you have an active paid subscription.

5. You should only use the Assets as a part of your creations

Simple as it sounds, this means that, as a creator, you should only incorporate the Assets into your creation.

What doesn't count as your creation usage of the Assets as standalone package.

When it comes to Artlist music, also music streaming, music channels, radio and other ways of music or sound effects reproduction.

The creation of a static video, a video loop animation combined with Artlist music in the background or lyric video with Artlist music is also forbidden.

Basically, this License does not allow you to use, make available or present any Assets as a standalone file. This means you can't use or allow anyone use the Assets as separate files for listening, viewing, downloading, publishing, performing, use as a template or any other similar use whatsoever.

This also means you can't use the Assets or the AI Services to provide services that compete with Artlist or with any of our artists. You also can't resell them in any way, such as in music/video collections, music/video libraries, music/video playlists, royalty free music or licensing, data-bases, tools, templates, etc. You can't resell and/or upload the Asset or any Projects to stock platforms. This includes not giving the impression that any Assets were created by you.

If our clips are included in your Project which has a subject that may be reasonably perceived as unflattering or controversial (such as an advertisement dealing with sexually transmitted infections), although we have the required releases, you can't intentionally portray the Asset or model where applicable in a negative way and must indicate that the model has no footage, posed by model”).

Since we understand there might be gray areas in this regard, you can find more information in the help center. We reserve to ourselves the right to decide in each case whether a certain use of an Asset is considered a violation of the above and you undertake to accept our decision in this matter. Don't worry, we have great professional skills and common sense.

We make our best efforts in order to verify every Asset and make sure they're great quality and are legally available. However, things happen, and we might find out that a certain Asset might be violating third party's right. Although we have the right to tell you to stop using such Assets, we will do so only in some rare situations. If we do, you must stop using it immediately and do your best to make anyone on your behalf stop using such Assets.

As we explain below, you are getting a license and not the proprietary ownership of the Assets. This means that you can't register or claim ownership of the Assets or the Project (or otherwise make it available) through any content detection and/or registration system, such as YouTube Content ID (CID), Facebook Rights Manager, etc. This also means that you may not incorporate any Assets or Projects into a logo, trademark or service mark, since that could block other customers from using the Assets.

6. Having a “License”

In other words, you're purchasing the right to use the Assets. You're not purchasing the Assets themselves.

The Assets remain protected by copyrights and intellectual property Artlist or its artists.

Artlist is the owner or the rights holder of all the rights in the Assets and the Site, inclusive of all intellectual property rights and all copyrights. You do not and will not have any rights whatsoever to the Assets or in the Site, except for the right of use as specified in this License. To know more about our rights in Artlist Proprietary Content and Site, check our Terms of Use or Business Terms of Use as applicable to your subscription.

This also means that you can't use names of the Assets nor of their creator(s) or their artistic name(s), except for giving them credit for their Asset.

Now that you know what a license is by using this License, you understand and agree to the rights, obligations, liabilities and prohibitions specified in this License, that you do not and will not have any ownership or intellectual property rights in the Assets or any recordings thereof, and that your rights to the Assets will not exceed the rights described in this License.

your Project in social media

Once you submit the relevant URLs on your account page you can monetize unlimited Projects, as long as you keep it reasonable.

You can monetize up to 3 channels/accounts per platform and with Teams plan, up to 5 channels/accounts per platform. Please note that under the Max Business plan, you may monetize an unlimited number of channels/accounts.

Need customized coverage? An Enterprise License may be required. Please contact our Sales Team.

To make your life easier, you can clearlist your channels and your YouTube Projects through the clearlist section in your Artlist account page and all Projects published under such channels /accounts or YouTube Projects will be allowed for your monetization.

If you need to clear and monetize on specific videos for your clients, you can create an invite link through the Clearlist section in your Account. Then share the link with your clients so they can add their videos. You can monetize unlimited Projects as long as you keep it reasonable.

In order to monetize your Projects, you need to make sure that you publish Projects during an active subscription with us.

you may receive claims from Artlist and will not be able to monetize your videos or remove ads from them. Once you add your channel or YouTube Projects URL to the clearlist, any claims from Artlist Ltd will be cleared and your monetization will be restored. Please note that you will not be reimbursed for lost monetization for the period during which your channel or YouTube Projects URL was not listed on the Clearlist.

8. The Assets are available for all Artlist creators

We believe in creative freedom.

That's why this License is not exclusive, meaning that any Asset you use can also be purchased and used by your fellow creators.

Likewise, non-exclusivity means that due to the nature of AI, Assets you generate using our AI Services may be unique; you may receive outputs which are similar to those of other users.

9. Public Performance & Broadcast

Reproducing copies or performing the Project

However, it does not cover payment of royalties to performance rights organizations (PROs) and other collecting societies.

Accordingly, if you or your client reproduces a Project, or uses a Project for broadcast or other public performance, you may receive requests for payment of mechanical reproduction and/or public performance royalties in connection with the musical works and sound recordings incorporated in the Project. In such cases, you are responsible for paying those amounts (or ensuring the relevant broadcaster or platform pays them) to the applicable organization.

10. How many seats do you want?

The individual plans give you a license for one person, but with Team plan, or the Max Business plan you can extend your license up to 6 more members (7 members in total).

Not enough? You can get as many seats as you want with our dedicated Enterprise solutions. Please contact our Sales team.

With the individual plans, the name you register for our services is the only at a time.

The Team plans or the Max Business Plan allow you to invite up to 6 members (excluding the admin, 7 members in total) to your license and remove or substitute them with other members at any time. The name of individual or company/entity you write when you create your Team account is the owner of the license. This means that all the members covered by the license can only use the Assets for benefit of the license owner (not for their own personal or commercial purposes).

If you need a license for more than users, we have a dedicated Enterprise solution for you. Check out the next section.

11. Max Business Plan & Enterprise license

If you work for an agency, broadcaster or for a company (or any other legal entity) that has more than 50 employees, you must have a Max Business plan to be covered by this License (or a customized Enterprise license). This also applies if your company is part of a group of companies that has more than 50 employees in total. This requirement does not apply to subscription plan consisting solely of AI Services.
